

Application management

Processor management

Memory management

User management

Peripheral management

File management

User interface

Enables multi-taking of applications	Management of the interaction between the apps and the hardware
Provides security through passwords to control access	Manages transfer of data and instructions in and out of RAM
Enables files to be saved	Uses hardware drivers
	Enables users to interact with the machine